ANNUAL MEMBERSHIP DUES

President's Message

Joe Olson

Best wishes to each of for the coming New Year!

Elections are here and ballots will be enclosed in the next issue of the TNA News. It is hoped that you will consider each candidate for their leadership abilities as you are casting your ballot. Additionally, TNA is in need of your input from the ballot box to your personal involvement. Your sharing of ideas and talents will enable TNA to be of greater benefit to others and to you. TNA will rise to new heights and positions of leadership. Please tell one of the officers of your interests. This will be greatly appreciated.

It was good to see our Coins for A's Program given national publicity in Coin World recently. Mike Grant reports that a club in Pennsylvania has implemented a program similar to our own. It is great to see a renewal of our hobby at the grass roots level. Maybe ANA will begin to sponsor or support a program in the near future.

Kirk Menczer reports that our Internet Home Page is just about complete. At press time, it is hoped that our Internet Home Page will be LIVE for your viewing enjoyment. Hopefully, you are already plugged in to the Internet. Great Job Kirk!!! Currently the Internet address is through America On Line to the TNA News with Mike Grant, the current address is MPG4TNA or TNANews. This may change as Kirk gets our home page up and running.

We are looking forward to a memorable convention and show in Houston. Byron Paris reports that table sales are running ahead of expectations. As seating is limited, dealers please confirm your table reservations as quickly as possible as we are likely to sell out this year. This convention will be TNA's first to the luxurious JW Marriott on Westheimer across from the Galleria. Our astute TNA negotiators have secured a wonderful hotel convention rate for TNA members and guests. The Convention will be held June 13 through 15, 1997.

Our thoughts and prayers go with each of you for a healthy and prosperous New Year. Please remember Mac Kennedy and Lyman Bartee in your thoughts and prayers. These men are giants of our hobby. Their broad shoulders have given us a wonderful vantage point from which we may view the hobby of numismatics with delight.

Best Wishes

Joe Olson

A Few Words From the Editor

Mike Grant

I hope everyone had a great holiday season!

As you recall we asked for nominations of officers in the last issue I hope everyone made their decisions. The ballots will be in the next issue with the names of everyone running for office.

In this issue is the envelope for dues, yes it's that time again to pay the 1997 dues. Please take out the envelope and send it to Barbara Lowell.

I have been reading all the clubs meeting reports sent in to be published in the TNA News, I must tell you all the clubs seem to have an increase in membership and some of the ideas I have seen are great. The clubs sending their newsletters to each other and around the country is great.

The Coins for A's program is in full swing and getting bigger Jim Fitzgerald tells me that he is receiving letters from all over the country. Coin World ran an article about our program and people on the internet have been contacting us. This is very exciting to see the increase in interest.

I am still looking for articles for the TNA News, if any of you want to send something in to share with everyone please let me know. We have gotten some great articles in the past, I know there are lots more out there.

As you know I am the convention coordinator for the TNA Convention>Show in Houston this year. Frank Clark has agreed to be the Education Chairman and make sure the programs are set up. Ralph Ross has agreed to be the Exhibits Chairman and take over the exhibits set up. As you already know Byron Paris is our Show Chairman. He has a strong background in setting up and running shows in the Houston area and we are very lucky to have him. We need volunteers to help with the show in a number of capacities. People are needed to help out at the front desk, judging exhibits, giving lectures, running the microphone table, and the TNA medals table. There are a number of other areas I have not listed. Please give me a call or contact Byron Paris to let us know when and how you will be able to help. I am looking at the area clubs in south Texas to really help out! I know they have done a lot in the past and we can count on them.

Collecting Coins of A Different Nature

by Mitch London

Hello to all you avid coin collectors out there! My name is Mitch London, and I have been collecting for about 10 years; but for the past 4 years I have been collecting coins of a different nature: I collect damaged coins.

That is correct, I said damaged coins. All those coins that you see with a huge chunk missing or the coin where somebody has scratched the surface beyond recognition, you know, the ones that you toss aside and maybe use to fill in a blue book. Those are the gems that I look for at coin shows and shops around town.

You may ask, why do I collect these coins? Well, I figure, somebody has to. Believe me it is not as easy as you may think. I am sure everyone has seen or has a coin that has been run over by a train. These are easy to get hold of; what I am after is the elusive coins that have some defect that is not normal, such as a coin that has been dipped in acid, struck by lightning, or even been welded on. I find these coins to be more facinating than some proot coins I have seen.

There are some advantages and disadvantages to collecting damaged coins, for instance: collecting damaged coins can be a lot cheaper than collecting proofs or rare coins. The damaged coins tend to have a bit more of a story behind them than a shiny new coin. Granted they may not have much numismatic value but if they ever get stolen it might actually be the only time the thief might bring them back, and if he didn't, you would not be out a whole lot of money. When you collect proofs and such, you must take care not to get fingerprints on your coins otherwise it may end up discoloring your coin and lowering its value. With damaged coins, there does not need to be such safety precautions, you realy can't ower its value any more than it is.

Now, if you are interested in collecting damaged coins here are a few pointers on what to look for and where to look. First, I consider a coin damaged if it has sustained some form of abnormal wear and tear. As for what type of damage to look for I suggest first of all, staying away from coins that look like they have been run over by trains or a coin that someone simply hit with a hammer a few times. These types of damage are easy to find and believe me when I say there are a lot of coins that have been run over, hit or stamped so it looks like Lincoln is smoking a stogie. Look however, for coins that have been possibly chemically altered, have odd holes in them not just holes for people to make necklaces out of, coins that look right but just don't feel right. A coin can look perfectly normal but be made out of the wrong metal or just does not have the right sound to it when flipped in the air. Coins that have only partial dates are good to look for. I actually have a 1975 where one of the numbers looks like it has been reversed. By n - 1975 do you have to stick to these guidelines, make your own up, collect what you want.

Here are a few suggestions as to where to find some coins to get you started. First off, I suggest going to your local bank; banks get in a surprising amount of damaged coins that they have to return to the Federal Reserve because they jam up their money counters. Find out what day they send their batch back and go in and most of the time they will be happy to trade their damaged coins to you for face value. Another place to look is coin shows, now 9 times out of 10 you will not find damaged coins in the dealers show cases, you will have to dig through their "Box-O-Coins". It may take some time, but the dealers usually toss in their boxes the coins that are scratched up and have little value to them, so you can get those pretty cheap as well. Finally, if you tell your numismatic friends that you started collecting damaged coins, you may be surprised when they come up to you one day and say, "Hey, you still collect those damaged coins..here are a couple that I came across the other day in my pocket change." Hey, free coins!

Now that you have a few coins to get you started, how are you going to tell, how bad they really are. Well, I have come up with a grading system just for damaged coins. This system is by no means perfect but it can give you a general idea as to what grade your coin is.

AG - About Good - Date easily readable. All details worn. No luster

NP - Near Poor - Date worn but easily readable. Coin may be marred in some way.

P - Poor - Date visible, barely readabel. Few details Coin badly marred. Coin may have a hole from necklace chain.

EP - Extra Poor - Date not readable but can be located. Coin badly scratched. 25% of coin may be missing for some reason. May have been chemically affected.

ND - Near Devastated - Date, what date? 50% of coin missing Coin denomination hard to tell.

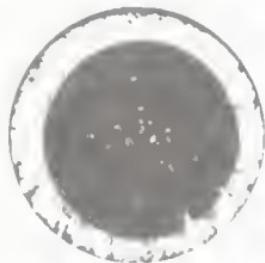

D1 - Devastated 1 - 75% of coin either missing or worn completely flat No date, no details, no telling what denomination it was, or even what country it came from

D2 - Devastated 2 - This lump is a coin??? Says who??? Even slugs look better than this.

You can use his grading system as a guide or you may certainly make your own. It is difficult to give further details on what to look for in coins because the further you go down, the fewer details there are to see. So if you decide to take up collecting damaged coins, be sure to have fun, and always remember, there is a difference between a coin that has been struck twice: the one at the mint that was double-struck and made a valuable double-die and the one that was struck once at the mint and again by a train. Happy hunting!

Here are a few of the coins I have collected!

Detroit, Texas by Frank Clark

Detroit Texas is a little hamlet located in Red River County between Paris and Clarksville. Detroit is sometimes referred to as "Little D". In 1980 the population was 805.

The town was first established on the Lamar and Red River County line. The community was first known as Starksville. It was named after George A.N. Starkes.

The Texas and Pacific Railroad forced Starksville to be moved on November 1, 1876. The town then was named Bennett Station because Judge Bennett had donated a portion of his land for the building of the railroad. The railroad was built with convict labor.

The "Station" part of the town's name was dropped and a post office was established at Bennett. Bennett was often confused with Burnett, Texas. This led to the renaming of the town for a fourth time. J.M. Stephens who worked for the Texas and Pacific Railroad named the town after his hometown - Detroit, Michigan. This was in May 1887.

The town began to grow attracting new businesses. A large grocery and dry goods store was opened in 1891 by S.F. and W.C. Crittenden. This was also prime cotton growing country and the town had three cotton gins and an oil mill.

The First National Bank of Detroit was chartered in 1892 with charter number 4682 and capital of $100,000. The bank was placed in voluntary liquidation on January 14, 1929.

The bank issued the following national bank notes:
Second Charter $10 and $20 Brown Backs
Second Charter $10 and $20 Date Backs
Third Charter $5, $10, and $20 Date Backs
Third Charter $5, $10, and $20 Plain Backs
The total amount of circulation issued was $460,400. The amount outstanding at close was $20,650. There were 51,044 notes issued.

Detroit's most famous resident was John Nance Garner. He was Franklin D. Roosevelt's vice president from 1933 - 1941. His nickname was "Cactus Jack". He was born south of Detroit in 1868 in a log cabin. Later he moved into a house south of Detroit's business district. The house still stands. He passed away in 1967.

Get Involved!! Exhibit at TNA 1997

Probably one of the hardest things for collectors to do is to get involved in their hobby. With the fast pace and tight schedules most of us keep these days, it is always easier to say later "Getting involved." means more than just buying, selling and/or trading material in your collection. Getting involved also means joining clubs, exhibiting, writing etc. We, as hobbyists, can come up with many reasons to avoid getting involved. We just don't have the time, resources, or quality of material required. While some of these are valid excuses, others are just easy methods to justify not getting involved. However, once you finally take a few minutes and get involved, you will quickly see the advantages of doing so. One of the best ways to get involved is to exhibit. Although putting together a quality exhibit takes time planning ahead makes it easier. Ralph Ross has agreed to be exhibit chairman for the 1997 show so lets get behind him. While it does take time to put together an exhibit you have a mere 5 months to do it, which is ample time. So, plan early and exhibit at TNA in '97!

AMAZING HOARD OF ANCIENT ROMAN DENARI

Due to a fortunate purchase by the Jonathan K Kern Co ancient department we can now offer again our very popular Roman empire denarii portrait gallery. These ancient Roman silver denarii (singular denarius) were struck during the height of the Roman Empire from 69 to 235 AD. The Roman Empire stretched from Scotland to Arabia from Morocco to Poland from Germany to Egypt and the Mediterranean was known as the "Roman Lake". It was an empire like the world had never known and has not known since. Dozens of aspiring generals and tyrants like Justinian Charlemagne Napoleon, and Hitler tried and failed to recreate the Roman Empire. All roads lead to Rome. When in Rome do as the Romans do. About every third word in the English language had its start in Roman Latin. Liberty or US coins is usually shown wearing or holding a Liberty cap which the Romans used to designate a free person. The Mercury head dime is named after the Roman messenger god. The fasces on the reverse is a symbol of Roman justice. The Roman Empire was the birth culture of the Christian religion. All one has to do is visit modern Rome now and look at the Colosseum built by Vespasian, the triumphal arch of Titus, Trajan's Column, and the Forum of Trajan. These are 2,000 year old ruins which represent only a small fraction of the awe inspiring grandeur of this amazing civilization.

The average weight is about 3.5 grams of good silver. They were hand struck with the reverse die embedded in an "anvil" of log cross section and the obverse die was held and struck with a hand sledge hammer. These silver jewels were struck in massive quantities to fuel the economic needs of a vast thriving empire and indeed as this hoard demonstrates the oldest denarii in the hoard passed from hand to hand for over 125 years before being buried. They were struck by hand engraved dies by skilled artists known as celators. The portraits of all the different Roman emperors and their family members are like a portrait gallery of miniatures, silver busts or like a precious metal three dimensional photo album. The reverse dies were also carefully engraved usually to depict all the gods, goddesses, heroes and nymphs of Roman mythology. Other reverse commemorated military victories, religious or political events or just plain propaganda.

The silver denarius was also the power base by which Roman emperors maintained the loyalty of their legions. These paid professional legionaries though proud to be part of the Roman army were just as happy serving a rival claimant to the Imperial Purple if he happened to have a more generous war chest overflowing with denarii. All through the reign's NERVA and all the other Adoptive emperors the standard pay of the legionnaire was 300 denarii a year.

Just by handling these treasures of the past one can almost hear the drums giving a cadence to the tromp of the Legion's advance and the trumpets signaling the charge against the enemy lines! But after the battles are over and the paymaster has distributed the denarii to the surviving legion what happened then? For a denarius a Roman could buy 12 large loaves of bread or 24 small loaves. A serving of table wine (probably watered which was acceptable) cost an as or 1/16 of a denarius. Vintage wine cost 1/4 a denarius a serving. In the Holy Land an amphora of olive oil from the Galilee cost one denarius. A bunch of grapes or 10 figs cost an as or 1/16 of a denarius. An ox sold for 100 denarii and a calf 20 denarii and a ram 8 denarii and 5 sparrows cost 1/8 denarius. It could cost a trader 10,000 denarii to lease a ship (galley). A scribe a highly educated man earned 12 denarii a week. He ate and drank for 4 denarii a week and his clothing and cost 4 denarii a week (he must have dressed quite well because a commoner could buy sackcloth which would last years for only 4 denarii).

THE ADOPTIVE EMPERORS COINAGE OF ROME'S ZENITH

The English historian Edward Gibbon termed the second century AD the "happiest age in history." Between 96 and 180 AD the Roman Empire was ruled by a series of capable emperors. After the assassination in AD 96 of Domitian, the last of the Flavian emperors, the Senate chose one of their own members the elderly NERVA to succeed to the throne. To secure the support of the army the new emperor adopted the general TRAJAN as his son and heir in AD 97. This adoption set a precedent for the next four emperors--TRAJAN, HADRIAN, ANTONINUS PIUS, and MARCUS AURELIUS, would come to the throne as the adoptive son of their predecessor. Under these "adoptive emperors" the Roman Empire would reach the zenith of its power and prosperity.

In AD 98 TRAJAN became emperor upon the death of NERVA. Under TRAJAN, the Roman Empire underwent its last significant territorial expansion. After two campaigns (AD 101-102 and 105-106) TRAJAN annexed the Kingdom of the Dacians (modern Romania). In the Forum of Rome there still stands the awe inspiring column of TRAJAN depicting the military campaign against the Dacians in detail as over 2,500 figures spiral upward around the 125 foot height.

In 105 the kingdom of the Nabataean was converted into the Roman province of Arabia Petraea. In A.D. 114 a dispute with Parthia led TRAJAN to annex Armenia and invade Mesopotamia. In A.D. 116 Mesopotamia was declared a Roman province. However rebellions in the East including those of the Jews, forced TRAJAN to retreat. He died in A.D. 117 before he could resume campaigning in the East. Before his death TRAJAN named his adopted son HADRIAN as his heir.

The reign of HADRIAN was one of consolidation. The new emperor gave up TRAJAN'S eastern conquests--Armenia regained its former status as a Roman vassal state. Other frontiers were strengthened. In Britain the wall he built to defend against the Scolic tribe is still to be seen. HADRIAN spent most of his reign outside of Italy touring the provinces to see first-hand what were each territory's needs. HADRIAN married a grand niece of TRAJAN'S named SABINA but they had no children so in A.D. 136 HADRIAN adopted a certain L. CEONIUS COMMODUS who took the name AELIUS CAESAR as his son and heir. However the death of AELIUS in A.D. 138 compelled HADRIAN to designate a new heir, ANTONINUS. In turn HADRIAN compelled ANTONINUS to adopt LUCIUS VERUS, the son of AELIUS and a nephew of ANTONINUS MARCUS ANNUS VERUS, renamed MARCUS AURELIUS. HADRIAN died later that same year.

The reign of ANTONINUS PIUS (A.D. 138-161) was notable chiefly for its tranquility although in Britain a new defensive line north of HADRIAN'S wall was built to keep the Scottish tribes further at bay. His wife, FAUSTINA SENIOR died in 141 A.D. so the vast majority of her coinage was commemorative in nature. Also notable was the long apprenticeship of MARCUS AURELIUS, who was named Caesar in A.D. 139. He married a daughter of ANTONINUS PIUS and FAUSTINA in 145 A.D. She is known to history as FAUSTINA JUNIOR. By the time of the death of ANTONINUS in A.D. 161 MARCUS was thoroughly prepared to assume the burdens of office. As it turned out they would prove to be considerable.

Upon his accession MARCUS AURELIUS elevated his adoptive brother, LUCIUS VERUS, to the position of co-emperor. MARCUS, however, was clearly the supreme authority. LUCIUS married the eldest daughter, LUCILLA, of MARCUS and FAUSTINA JUNIOR in 164 A.D. MARCUS was to spend much of his reign on campaign. Invasions of German tribes from the north and of Parthians from the east bedevilled the empire. Plague, brought back from the east by the army in A.D. 166, swept the empire (a second wave of plague carried LUCIUS VERUS away in A.D. 169). Despite these shocks, MARCUS was able to restore order on the eastern frontier and was poised to annex territories on the northern frontier at the time of his death A.D. 180. MARCUS was succeeded by his son COMMODUS, thus breaking the pattern of succession through adoption and with the accession Rome's greatest era came to an end.

COMMODUS proved to be a despot who became quite insane. COMMODUS thought he was the god Hercules and he is depicted as Hercules on a number of his coins. He would enter the arena himself to fight gladiators and wild beasts. There were several plots against him, one of which involved his sister LUCILLA whom he put to death. COMMODUS' wife CRISPINA was banished early in his reign and later executed. COMMODUS was eventually assassinated Dec. 31, 192 A.D. and the Roman Empire entered an era of anarchy.

Clements Coin Club, (The C-Cubed).

The Oct. 17th club newsletter starts with a letter from the president letting everyone know that those members going to the Florida convention on Jan. 9-12 will have to have enough points for attending meetings, etc to be able to go. There is only enough room for 12 people to attend. There are letters from club members stating why they joined the club.

The Oct. 31st newsletter has a report on the trip to Florida. It seems that a large number of people want to go and that people will have to be picked out. To go members must have two exhibits ready to show. The GHCC Money Show is in February and everyone going to it must have an exhibit. There is an article by Peter Keller on "Circulation Collecting". In this he states that it is still possible to find worthwhile coins of modern dates such as double die and error coins. There is a letter from Paul Johnson of Canada to Ralph Ross thanking him for sending photos of the ANA Convention to him.

In the Nov 14th issue Peter Keller writes a very good article on "Collecting Error Coins". Jennifer Yu writes an article about an area newspaper the Sun, which has the Clements CC on the front page.

The Clements Coin Club is our young numismatists club from Clements High School in Sugarland, Texas.
